What we've been doing

17 May 2022

Nine Mile Ride (Madingley)

We created ponds in damp areas to either side of the path. We cleared vegetation and a fallen tree to get access, and then excavated a stepped pond. The work was very muddy, and one volunteer fell in the mud. Part of the group continued cutting back rhododendron and piling the cut material. A few volunteers spent some time investigating the poor drainage across the path, but no successful solution was found.

The weather was very pleasantly warm with some broken cloud. 13 volunteers attended.

Cabbage Hill

The task was ragwort pulling. There was some confusion at first about recognising ragwort rosettes. There are two species of ragwort commonly found in meadows: common ragwort and hoary ragwort. Both were present on this site, and after some discussion we worked to remove both species.

16 volunteers attended. The weather was cloudy with occasional showers.

In case you're wondering about the picture below, I don't know either.
